Electricity tariff change due to rise in fuel cost: Minister

Minister for Finance Ron Nobbs has commented on questions from the public about the rise in the electricity tariff from 1st April, which was announced last week.

“I note that the Mobil agent has advised the public of new prices for petroleum products, which did not include sales to the Norfolk Island Government”, Mr Nobbs said. “Members of the community should be aware that we were obliged to increase the electricity tariff because the price of fuel to government has risen significantly, despite other downward adjustments”.
